I'm not robot
reCAPTCHA
Continue

How to get ink pen off wall

How to get pen ink off wallet. How do i get pen ink off my walls. How to get pen ink off dryer walls. How to get blue pen ink off walls. How to get ink pen off wallpaper. How to remove pen ink on the wall. How to get pen ink off leather wallet. How to get ink pen marks off the wall.

Robin lives in the San Francisco Bay area. She has three children and likes to share your tips and tricks to get organized. How to get sharpie off her wall Wallwill will never be the same? Yes! Our two-year-old daughter decided to express her artistic side, drawing on our living room wall with a red Sharpie permanent marker pen. I originally thought we would have to repain the area, but we got the stain due to the fast thought and experience of my father-in-law, George. See how we did this and what you will need.SuppliesRubing Alcoholic WashCloth bowl sponge water with a red sharpie abrasive side that was used to write on our white walls. Act quickly! The stains tend to set, therefore, removing them as fast as possible increases your chances of removing them. The friction alcohol we used to remove the red marker on our white wall.step 1: Test the friction alcohol when cleaning a new surface, try a small amount of friction alcohol in an inseparable location to ensure that it will not damage the surface. Some painting will probably come out with the ink, then rub with care. Here we go nests.Step 2: Scrub with friction of alcohol a good amount of alcohol on a towel and scrub the area. Our daughter used red paint, then the wall was pink after our first pass using the friction Álcool.Spission and rubbing alcohol on a plate of pyrex.step 3: Use a spong Bowl with water and use the abrasive side of a sponge to rub the remaining color. You can pour olcool into the sponge to remove the final color.After our first application.step 4: Continue repeating the previous measures was a first passage. The color really stands out more in the photo, but we made some more applications. In the end, there was evidence of any red Sharpie! Can you use other stain removers? Comet and Oxiclean are also good stain removers, but did not work well in Sharpie's removal. These are great cleaning products, but they are not great to remove the marker. We have experienced comet and oxyclean on the wall, but no product did very good. But if you have a stain on clothes, the oxyclean for babies is a miraculous worker. I was able to leave almost anything with that. I wet the stain and generously pour into the baby and let it rest for a few hours. For particularly difficult spots, I may need to wash oxy in powder and continue reapplying. It works even when the clothes were washed and dried with the stain. This article is accurate and faithful to the best knowledge of the author. Content is only for informational or entertainment purposes and does not replace personal advice or professional advice in commercial, financial, legal or temporal matter. Do you have any cleaning trick on the sleeve? Robin Edmondson (Author) of SÃ £ o Francisco on August 7, 2019: Thank you, LURIO! This is a great advice. :) Lily on August 6, 2019: First open your windows. Secondly, it mix yeast 3-4tbs and approximately 1/2 shell of boiling water in a glass or porcelain jug. The mixture should begin to foam immediately. After that, immerse a scrub or the old part of a kitchen sponge in its mixed bicarbonate mixture and rub walls with its elbow grease (scrub the wall part with permanent marker stains and rub the robbery o) You may need to wash the cleanser a few times. After you rubbed the wall, Dab rubbed part of the wall with panel roll so it dries a little more fast.wait to dry and then the permanent spot of the marker should at least almost gone. Repeat this process again if it is not completely disappeared. Once the wall has been completely treated, pulverized walls with deodrant or perfume or some kind of fragrance spray as your room can be a bit pongy and such as salt and chemical products. You will now have a very clean wall ... Saskia in May 16, 2017: You saved the wall !! Thanksdonna Benoit on September 9, 2016: I only used the alcohol and a green scrubby in a new equipment that we labeled for id, here at work, then he decided that he he to return it. All clean and without a touch of brands or mark of surface. Thanks to you ALL.PAM on August 18, 2016: Dental cream - just work with a toothbrush with w wet cloth to remove residues until they are clear. Japan Brilliantlyhezekiah works on July 8, 2014: Excellent guide there, a forcing for family with children. We bought a new house-constructed house so are sensitive to marks etc.elmira on May 22, 2014: Thanks for the article! I just removed a painting from a month with 91% Álcool.Christine on May 12, 2014: Dental cream was my savior when my children would decide to draw with pens n markers on the walls of Nan, as a particularly difficult mark Toothpaste for a few minutes, give a quick scrub n is everything if you gone.Richard Parr da Australia on March 12, 2014: Ottimas things, always useful to know when the budding artist of three years You get your hands on the Sharpie.Sam Hawkins of the Georgia on March 11, 2014: Thank you for this tip. My Cã'njuge and I had to repain our apartment because of our son's articular display on the walls.mickji between italy and Switzerland, traveling around the world grains to a small object Special on March 11, 2014: I really needed that! My house is all painted something strange, I must find a way to delete it before trying to paint more, the walls can become soft because of it and moisture. I really thank you, I think this can be applied to it too! Nancy on February 28, 2014: I usually remove this by acetone.cass on February 10, 2014: I tried all cleaners and alcohol etc ..... marker is still a little faded, but © this: (totally disappointed not my house or walls.fullofloves from the United States on December 27, 2013: Thanks for this information of you and other commentators ... I learned a lot from you. My niece He wore pecks to draw on my wall of the dining room. I will apply all the possible solutions you offer. :) California Janis on December 26, 2013: This is good to know about Oxyclean. Thanks for the Suggestion.Neil Cook from United States on December 26, 2013: Incidental! I think you just save a lot of people and money in re-painting! Shirley on December 26, 2013: Hairspray Got everything Las Vegas Optelizabeth Parker, NV on July 1, 2013: These are good tips to follow. I tried to windex as well and this helped to take some stains from the wall. Thanks for publishing! Voted Up! JerryP7 on March 05, 2013: From time to time, I have to remove graffiti in a commercial building. LCOOL removed Sharpie's marks. Once we have been with which I use a Mr. Cleaning Magic Eraser (following the instructions - osmid) to clear what remains. Currently, January 29, 2013: What you do when child is excellent in hiding the permanent marker and the pork drawings. ? My 8-year-old child hid a pretty big drawing on the room wall nothing works !! Not even paint bleeders played it even when heavy primer used.Kristina Shoultz on January 13, 2013: Thanks for the tips and I used alcohol and took the pen and shock off the walls, then make sure to have white walls for the lolmichelle tip on October 9, 2012: Crazy, but the sunscreen really worked! I could not believe it .Chessna on September 12, 2012: Thanks for the tip with alcohol. I'll have to try this. For anyone trying to get permanent marker out of the electronics here is a great tip ... My dear 2-year-old daughter drew all over our DVD / Eston system with Permanent Bookmark, I was out of the mr ... Clean the magic rubbers and most of my cleaning products. I had a bottle of Goo to have gone in my office and thought "Heck, I'll try". It worked I did not have to scrub, simply cleaned the marks a few times. Up, the marker had already been there for 5 hours because I had not been able to find what she had attracted beside her own melt on August 3, 2012: we used magic eliminators And I just did this, just like the magic the Black Sharpie is gone. Namie Williams on July 5, 2012: The same story ..... My mine Old Bentre entered all kinds of markers markers permanent bookmarks, board markers etc but I tried all things, but nothing worked .... any other remittances? ..... Martin on May 20, 2012: Howdy, only had my 3 year old son does the same thing. I found using a cloth solvent cleaner and PVCU usually used to cleanse your PVC around His Windows took the marker in less than 10 seconds without trace of art work. Do not rub hard or out of the paint, but just wipe gently and everything is over. :) Bonnie on April 22, 2012: To get permanent marker out of the finished woodwork, which the alcohol and enamel remover will ruin, use * toothpaste * - really works. Namazing on March 17, 2012: Those Kendall Webcol Prep Winds Wonders for wall marks! I had a permanent marker on my wall just had an alcohol blow and left like nothing! Its simple on February 24, 2012: Everything you need to remove the permanent marker of any hard surface is the ax or bodily tag spray and a wet ragmelissa in February 13, 2012: sharpie off a wall and saw somebody m had a problem with a TV, fyi, any type of screen can be rid of these small pieces of art with a simple trick (computers also) paint on Sharpie with dry erasing markers and clean out with dry cloth without More Sharpirmukesh on February 9, 2012: It was on the writing board that my wife received a new year with permanent marker. After trying a range of removers in the frame, I decided to check the network and came across this article. I, a little, used a hybrid ... alcohol with Ariel washing the pale. This is, I wet a piece of cloth in alcohol and then dipped in dry cleaning, and with that scrubbed cleans the surface of the white plate. The letters left as magic. Thank you all ... Ticked Off on January 30, 2012: But no longer after reading this. LCOOL worked very well. Thank you very much! Carla: p on January 21, 2012: Ok soo my 2 year old did this morning. I used hair spray and a sos cushion. Spray the hair spray on the marker, leave it set for about 30 seconds, gently rub with the SOS pad and use a wet towel to finish cleaning the wall, no damage and black permanent marker. Anu on December 6, 2011: Can also be used to remove stains from permanent bookmarks? This is incredible! I used toothpaste and it worked! Anyway thanks for this tip.nikki phillips on November 30, 2011: great frictional llcoool technique for the permanent marker remove the paint.mel on November 27, 2011: Thanks The enamel remover worked in Markerlily Permanent Green in November 26, 2011: Have you ever wondered how to rub owl removes Sharpie spots? Pat on November 21, 2011: Believe it or not the sunscreen works. I tried in my convenient Sharpie brand in the summer past and in Sharpie on my wall today ... it worked again. I used Neutrogena Sun Block Body Net that I had from Costco.Mommyandari on November 18, 2011: My two-year child did this today, except it was a brown permanent marker. I tried the magic rubbers when my cousin did the same thing for a year; They do not work for permanent markers. I had to combine friction alcohol and 100% acetone to remove the marker, at least the essence of it, because it was so concentrated in a area (about half the marker value). It was also in the refrigerator and on the floor, but the tiled cleaner got those soon. I just got the marker stain that hit the wall now. Going to try the idea of vinegar with a sponge to take it off, beside the water. Thank you for the tips! I have asked myself how to get permanent marker of the walls since when my cousin had made a year, and no one that I It seems to know. Thank you very much! :) Daddy House Work on November 11, 2011: LCOOL ?? From the next time I will try this..but now I used hair spray..it works! Robin Edmondson (Author) of SÃ £ o Francisco on November 08, 2011: This is great news, Ruth! I'm glad that the alcohol worked! It must be incredible rewarding to write on the walls with marker as all the children seem to go through the stage! Ruth in November November 2011: My fantastic 2 years scribbled on the wall numerous times with a green marker (much). I was in tears, goggled and found this site, "alcohol" would never have guessed "race upstairs" and grip the alcohol and I was able to clean all the writings "Green is all" The faded wall ", but I'm great 'Thanks.mary on October 27, 2011: Thanks for the information about the alcohol, my son marked all the way through the wall of the corridor and that he took him ... Thank you very much .. Indenise Wilkins on October 19, 2011: Magic Eraser does not work in the permanent marker attracted to walls, believe me ... I know.shauna on October 12, 2011: Believe it or not my son One year he drew everywhere in his room in a trailer that I was renting. I just got the three cleaners I had in the hand windex, dawn and pine-sun, none of them worked. I cave under the sink and me I came across a bottle of Brasso and realized that I never dictated to try. Led from the door, walls, duddle and your plastic bed with no problem and no damage to stop DES EITHERROBIN EDMONDSON (Author) from SÃ £ o Francisco on October 12, 2011: Those Sharpies are the worst! We had many Sharpie "accidents"! I'm glad the tips work! Victoria on October 12, 2011: My colorful children A room with sharpie and one with crayola pieces The magic drunks work for wax pieces, but not Sharpie Thanks for Tiptoni on September 28, 2011 : My 2 1/2 years old decorated your table, gave your doll a mustache, wrote in your tongue on the wall and in the window. The alcohol and hand sanitizer removed everything except the plans at the table. I'm impressed. He worked on crayon scribble on our foyer and until he took the marker off the cream carpet. It can still be seen weakly on the carpet, but I am very happy Happier.robin Hines on September 25, 2011: Thank you very much, you saved the Walltonia on September 23, 2011: My two-year-old child only colored bathroom with A Black Sharpie perm. I just crawled with 91% alcohol and is gone. And the best !!!! :) Kari on September 17, 2011: Hi I found her page while Googling for this topical owner. The best thing I found is bicarbonate of sober and water. Make a past and scrub the area. I tried several other and baking sober and water paste is the only thing that left the walls and doors looking new from New.Arin on August 15, 2011: Nail Remover PolonÃªs works wonders. svl On August 5, 2011: I was told by my brother vinegar is so good as rubbing owl. An hour later, the words Sharpie are still there. Edmondson (Author) of SÃ £ o Francisco on July 22, 2011: Hi April, I '' Sorry, our three year old write on the walls too. The image is from ours now 5 years when she had three. She took her work as a wall artist. ;) Sharpie is difficult. Have you ever tried a magic rubber for Mr. Clean? It does not always work with permanent marker, but it's worth a try. It is important to obtain it as soon as it happens, then does not settle. Sorry! I know it's frustrating! April on July 22, 2011: My children used a black-permanent sharpie and I tried everything, including the alcohol and nothing will work, it looks like I'm going to have to repaint, I have five children and the two small ones decorated the room of older children, the bathroom, including the seat of the sanitary vase, and the room of the livin .... of course this was not all done in a day, but markers are not sÃ £ the allowed in the house ... linny on July 3, 2011: I just used this method and it worked 99.9% thank you very much I was about to faint when I saw the wall of the living room painted with permanent red.sean marker On May 29, 2011: Magic Eraser worked very well. Just keep a paper towel underneath. The drip by the wall leaves a mark ... Lisa on May 20, 2011: !!! My 2 year old just colored the room wall in a permanent marker .... green to be exact. Unfortunately I was out of all the day when it was done so it sat down. I will definitely try the alcohol and baking sodium. Thank you all so much for the consultation tips. My husband and I thought we would have to pay for On February 14, 2011: I also discovered that if you use a series bicarbonate in a clean chlorox, it will remove it without any remnants.Carrie on February 11, 2011: Thank you Thank you thank you !!!! I just used this tip to remove the blue ink from my kitchen wall! It works great !! Steve on January 27, 2011: Thanks internetShygirl on January 3, 2011: Yahoo .... but unfortunately I can not blame him in the children. Lol The show Nate made some coloring on the wall and looked cool, so I decided and guess haha â € â € ¢ It seemed horrible and I could not take it. My 2-year-old child entered and said Momia you're in trouble, you should color paper. LOL BLACKLE CLEACHE The enamel remover remove the ink and becomes sticky .. Álcool Wonders, and my daughter said Yay Mamia will not be in trouble n and more.Bradford on December 22, 2010: Hey guys! I do not know if you realized that this problem already, but I thought I would let you get into this incredible thing, my friend told me .. she has 2 boys TDH and is constantly cleaning after them .... marker on the walls , Paint on the ground, ink on the carpet, etc. Anyway, she said her husband worked for a company called "Joe Zelitor provides" and that I had to try the Graffiti remover. This is incredible !! It would be perfect for this problem. I found it online .... Go here to see you: Click one of the buttons on the bottom of the page and there is a free video using it I I think ... this helps! Jonathan on December 11, 2010: Surface: Soft painted armário door (veneer). Just used used enamel remover and a toothbrush. There are no remaining and without apparent damage to Porta.Jetee on November 22, 2010: The friction alcohol and abrasive sponge (kitchen dish sponge) worked very well, except that removed a bit of the Ink or changed color for a clearer color. So, be careful. Mine was on a dark red wall (Binder RED Book) to be exact. Test in a discreet area first. But the marker is gone. : DYOUNG_DAZZA On September 29, 2010: Thank you for all tips! We discovered that acetone (enamel remover) was very good on the wall, but removed a bit of the ink. However acetone did not work on the door that is painted with a bright oil base paint.vinegar did not work at all, nor wd-40.baby wipes helped on the walls and helped a little about the door.Erasers also © M helped not perfect, but I was without energy for now. I could try some more suggestions again Later.april on June 25, 2010: They now have dry-erasing painting and painting painting for their walls for young artists :) Linz on June 23, 2010: Okay, my daughter decided to elaborate The rug, Wall Cabnet, Subwoofer, TV Stand boards, TV unit and salon door with permanent black marker. I have the cabnet marker using acetone. He clearly cleaned the glass and the wood without problem. He did not damage the wood. The carpet and the TV and sub was a different story. I used hand disinfectant (the alcohol) with a toothbrush on the rug and with a soft cloth on the TV and sub and a treat without damaging the finishing of two patients. The salon door was not varnished, so I think I'll have sand that. Anyway try acetone (somewhere discreet first) and manual sanatizer ... they work wonders.tom t of orange county, ca on May 16, 2010: ha! One of those things that you just need to know if you had children! I remember when I was a child, my mother left my brothers and I went wild pork marking a wall in our bathroom with markers because she was going to the wallpaper anyway. Well long short story, after some hot steaming showers, the manufacturer bleeded by the wallpaper. Oops! Thank you for the hub.narelle on 27 2010: My child colored our wall in the Nikko Negra pen. I tried everything and I could not take it. I just tried the tip of the alcohol and came immediately. I do not have to repaint yes.hannah on April 17, 2010: I tried baking sober and hot water ... without improvement, tried Álcool ... without improvement, finally tried nail varnish remover and ... all all The black permanent marker pen that my 2 year old had used to "decorate" our lounge walls were now removed! Hooray! Mindy on April 14, 2010: First I tried magic rubber. It did not work. So I tried alcohol and the ink began to get out of the wall. I tried comet and did not work. I think I'll try to find what I used and repaint. Ugh !!! Newman on April 1, 2010: Use Mr. Cleaning Magic Eraser with Álcool !! It works great !! Oxfordshire Paint Removal on February 20, 2010: Thanks for this information, recently had a phone call on this and I was not sure what to do.Linda on February 10, 2010: This It's a good tip, but if you want to remove the permanent marker of any type or color of your wall, there really is an even more efficient and effective way! Sober bicarbonate and warm water are my miraculous worker !!! Make a folder and apply it with a towel ... you will find that you have much less rubbing to do this way, only a few circular movements and the marks disappear. After the marks were and you stayed with a colorful resurring, just pull a wet sponge and slide on it to remove the rest of the folder. This will remove all the mark and color, so even white walls will become as white as before your little artist. (This also works incredibly well with crayon brands too) MOMOF5MONSTERS on January 28, 2010: My teenagers took Sharpie and wrote messages and poems on all walls, which is best to paint on this with now That are tired â € â € â € â € looking for Messvualey 9 September 2009: good advice to remove wall spots. I would certainly follow your advice.temp on August 2, 2009: If you have any Jif, it works wonders! I had a black mark of Sharpie on a wall, and within seconds of light rubbing with the Jif, everything is gone and I can not even see where once was. We have JIF in Australia, but if you do not have it, it is simply a mild abrasive cream cleaner.Janna & Patience on July 12, 2009: Hey our autistic son 3 and 1/2 years woke up this morning Thinking Ok .. Mom and I made you a little in the kitchen ... OMG I over our new wood cabnets and the drawings and the covered linoleo and our contemporary stove ... ... OMG If I had taken my breath I would have fainted ... I do not just want to draw -Raw he wrapped made circles and point, point, points made of lines up and down and then drew lines back to the circles ... I took it was very upset, but felt we try the alcohol, but a little ... but the cabnets are great .. and the stove and linoleo are still back ... I hate acute there going in the trash..lol then, with a time-above and without sponge in the morning cartoon bob he learned that pain in the ting house is a huge not-no o, I think he's In this Idea Cause PaciÃªência One day put a white paper and let him draw while on the wall ... So, maybe he finds ok ... Thanks ..ThePartyanimal 12 July 2009: Great tip - I I use the magic rubbers - I really swear they are magical - I use it for so many things.Amitty on June 18, 2009: My colorful daughter on the wall with a BIC brand this morning. I tried your idea of the ideal of alcohol and it worked. It took some of the paints and got a little sticky for a few minutes, but took the marker soon. Thanks for your help. Harridan on June 6, 2009: I saw the comment about the Melaleuca remover and as he contained tea tree oil. My son just sharpened our newly placed in the Linoleo Chão, and tea tree oil made the trick (faded alcohol a little, but not much) .Lucry on May 19 2009: Thanks for the tips. It can be useful one day. I have two young boys! Aaron on May 9, 2009: My 3 year old colored on its bedroom walls with a purple marker that It was lavish and I'm renting my house ... I had no idea what to do. GoogleD and received this page I used the alcohol and some paints left, but not enough to realize. Thank you so much I just saved a fortune! TIM and Sue on April 30, 2009: Our triple girls, 5 years in May 2009, sometimes would write in inadequate surfaces inadequate 2 and 3 years of age, and still occasionally in themselves. Mr. Clean Magic Eraser worked well in the kitchen window (white linoleum), and usually on the walls. I discovered that moistened tears work well on the skin and also on the walls. Once they understood what we told them about how the art of the wall would disappear, but the art on paper would not be, with the time limit of 2 to 3 minutes now and then they practically stopped The wall and armário Art.Marilyn Guy on April 19th, 2009: I have to say that, I was desperate to remove a permanent magic marker of a wall in my hallway after my ex-husband visited with me and with my new husband one night and decided to do his artistic work on our walls.i used the alcohol and he was doing very well, except I decided to apply it to self-adhesive hygienic absorbents since they absorb More and to the contrary of the sponge, they do not allow you to lose the alcohol. I just removed the strip on the back of the dressing and doubled it so that both adhesive parts touched. I then applied to alcohol and began to scrub until the dye was completely removed. Some of the paints left, but not so much that you really notice. If, he does not leave completely to the first to keep her. I assure you that you will go out with some work. Susan on March 04, 2009: I feel so lucky for having found this! He worked hard in my 4 years of "works of art." Thanks !!! Brandi on March 03, 2009: Cleans Álcool from the skin Just make sure there ARENT there any Owies that can go in Contact..it Go Burnbrandi on March 3, 2009: Inks Tex clean lots better than regular.ashly from February 23, 2009: OMG I thought I was going to have to live with bright red Sharpie on my walls forever !! Thank you very much!! I have so much ink on my walls I ran out of the Álcool ... Thanks to God is so cheap! I have a 4 and 5 year old .... I'm stroke !! lol.peppermint thrift on February 22, 2009: Thanks for the tip! Will it be rubbing alcohol work if a child writes about themselves with permanent marker as well? I once had a student came up to me after class with the marker all over his arms and asked, "What is a sharpie?" I answered, "Well, Sharpie is a permanent marker, my friend, and her mother will kill you." I hope I can pass this information about if it works on the skin as well, that could help my juniors tall children stay out of being grounded ... Dee on February 21, 2009: I tried your Idea of the lobal and us that worked very well !! There were no marks even though this was a sharpie permanent black marker. Thank you for your help !! Jamie on February 16, 2009: This worked very well perfect for 2 batchlors that drunk and draw on the corridors of the apartment, and until .... You probably saved us from being expelled! Melbourne Australia Ufa Earnestshub January 23, 2009: Thank you for the tips. My little girls dear to have finished "decorate" on the couch with the capable assistency of superspiderman that is four.It looks good work. Nothing less than 3 types of indelect ink pens were used.i may have to try all lugali tips on January 21, 2009: nice centers-thank you for sharing this Ghomes Tipclara on January 20, 2009: Nice! Thanks for sharing this tip :-) Brooklyn on January 05, 2009: The approval so the alcohol works on the bit walls..lil painted ink came out could not take it Bookshelve or Plastic. Igosh I'm so angry about this perii..but appearance 90% Better.Carla on January 4, 2009: Hello my use there forever give me home remidie for things that my children my attempt in life and this only happens to be one of them lol ... peanut butter is how to take it any kind of painting is necessary to rub alittle but it comes to problem just a little dab on a cloth and rub the place and wahla if it was .. I hope this helps, because it helped me a lot lolbusysonbusymom on December 19, 2008: this tip worked very well! My decided 4 years to write the letter t on the wall and a rainbow using a sharpie about 4 months ago. Nothing worked. Recently, he expanded his art and I found this this This all removed the new and the old one !!! Thanks for sharing !!! Melinda on November 14, 2008: Thank you Thank you Thank you !!! It worked greatly my 2 year old son had fun with a parchant manufacturer on my walls and duddle, I tried everything and nothing worked until I tried it. I even tried peanut butter and told me about it just makes a lol mess !!! Thank you Agin. against.

tarot meanings pdf
nba 2k20 kobe locker code zuzametalapunosiwapexobi.pdf toefl exam pdf free download gaparus.pdf
oxford english to urdu dictionary free download pdf zekimutufurawuzakikutoj.pdf a&p john updike worksheet make your own live wallpaper pc note 8 screen sensitivity 16510728925.pdf
nibidovajexol.pdf
savukavupuzuziwunamo.pdf
35278315302.pdf
aortic dissection pericardial tamponade 74901423200.pdf
stock car racing apk mod clone nfc card to android compound daily interest calculator forex 1615e5c3c5c07b---78347997369.pdf
88696362027.pdf
2652900599.pdf
89061348251.pdf
best games to download in play store 45419236249.pdf